

Miguel and Catherine Co-creation in practice short

Dr. Miguel R.:

Our viewpoints from the ICT side on the problem was clearly wrong. So we wanted to approach it in a completely different way. We wanted to solve, say, set problems that were of no interest to, you know, the other domain. But I think, you know, over time, you know, listening to, say, the challenges that people from Heritage Science face, we were able to retune and think about different approaches to solve what they are really interested in.